Please make sure your photo meets the following requirements

- It's close up and the focus is on the face (shoulder area and above only)
- It's about you, not the other stuff seen in the photo
- Good exposure = full range of value from light to dark (not too light or too dark)
- Interesting to look at = good expression, well balanced
- Interesting composition = not just you in the center, angle it, or be off center
- Reveals something about you = expression helps show personality, prop or object included tells us something about you or has a significance
- Make sure the file size is large enough (not something small from the internet)

Once you have made sure you have a successful photo:
